Assignments

Reading Assignments

Selected readings from the textbook, periodicals or the library collection covering theory and applications of group process work.

For Example: 1. Read the chapter on the theories of group counseling and in collaborative learning groups discuss the merits of each theory.

2. Read the chapter on the stages of groups, watch a video vignette on a process group, and then identify the stages of group process in the classroom discussion groups.

Writing Assignments

Written essays and papers on the topics of group process.

For example:

1. In an essay, define the differences between process groups and content groups.

2. Utilizing the Addiction Counselors Competencies, identify 5 group process competencies and in a written paper, apply them to an AOD recovery group.

Other Assignments

Journal entries to document observations and findings of group process.

For example: 1. Using journal entries, evaluate one's performance as a group leader in a group role-play. Specifically document the groups stage, communication style, and note some group members behaviors.
