Methods of Evaluation

Methods of Evaluation

Types	Examples of classroom assessments
Exams/Tests	Grammar Unit tests: For example, tests on present tense of be, simple present tense, present progressive tense, past tense of be, simple past tense. Other grammar topics (pronouns, contractions, prepositions, etc.) will be included within the tests. Final Exam: A comprehensive test that touches on all the grammar covered in the course.
Quizzes	Vocabulary quizzes: For example, identifying the meaning and/or parts of speech of 10 vocabulary words selected every week by the instructor or students. Short quizzes of class readings of a book (e.g., The Kite Flyer) to assess basic comprehension and vocabulary.
Other	4-6 grammar quizzes. Example: A short unit test (25 items) on simple present tense. 4-5 paragraphs with revisions. Example: Write about your typical day, write about what you and friends and family are doing these days, etc. Students will be assessed based on use of simple paragraph conventions, like use of topic and summarizing sentences, as well as simple sentence construction and consistent application of grammar introduced in the course. Example: assigned exercises from the grammar or writing textbook. Maintenance of a Reading Log to account for reading outside of textbooks. Example: Students will be assessed on amount of reading (averaging 20 minutes) and quality of their summaries with short personal insights.

Assignments

Reading Assignments

Example: Read Assigned text material and complete exercises.

Example: Read pages from a book like The Kite Flyer and Other Stories, answer basic comprehension questions and find definitions of vocabulary words.

Example: Record outside reading in a Reading Log with short summaries and insights.

Writing Assignments

Example: Prewrite, write, edit and then rewrite paragraphs. Topics may include writing about a typical day for you and someone you know, writing about what you and another person are active in these days, and/or writing about a past event in your life.

Other Assignments

Complete all other assigned activities.
